

going to punch my light on one more time to share with you the details of the funding mechanism because I'm not clear even from Senator Moore's remarks whether or not people fully understand that. So that will be my next speech. Thank you.

SPEAKER BAACK: Thank you, Senator Rasmussen. Senator Robinson.

SENATOR ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker, members of the body, Senator Horgan said this is a complex issue. It's such a complex issue most of the people in this body don't know what it is because they haven't talked to their people back home. I've been ridiculed and mauled over and whatever you want to, but let's talk about what we're doing. You can talk about the federal deficit, let's talk about it a little. If you listened to C-SPAN last night, I even saw one of our congressional representatives voted for the Governor's BTU tax would come back and says, I got problems, I have problems with the stimulus package. People back there really...we don't know what's going to happen back there. If we think it's such a good idea, if we think it's such a good idea, why don't we vote state funds for it? If it's one of our highest priorities, and I never...I think Senator Moore insinuated that I slammed Senator Rasmussen on what she said. No, I didn't slam her. You can do anything you want to in this body to try to get something funded. I admire her aggressiveness on that. I have no problem with that. Let's talk about one thing we haven't talked about, folks. These young people do get services. With all the debate that goes on, seems like they aren't getting services. They are getting services. Those young people are getting services. A question, Senator Rasmussen.

SPEAKER BAACK: Senator Rasmussen, would you respond, please.

SENATOR RASMUSSEN: Yes.

SENATOR ROBINSON: Okay, I'm a parent up in Alliance, Nebraska. I have a disabled...you're the Social Service person. Now you come in, I'm the Dad, I want you to tell me, what are you going to tell me?

SENATOR RASMUSSEN: Senator Robinson, would you clarify something for me?

SENATOR ROBINSON: Sure.
